Ah, mon ami, it appears that Madame Wordsearch has exercised her little grey cells with great enthusiasm this week. She has constructed for you a puzzle most fiendish—words that twist and turn in every direction, even backwards, even on the diagonal! You will need to observe with the utmost care, using your eyes as sharply as a detective on the trail. She did murmur, with a certain air of benevolence, that no book report would be required. Naturally, she believes you shall need all your time, all your concentration, to conquer this formidable challenge. Courage, please. Apply yourself with precision, and you shall triumph.
